

Predict. Compete. Win

The Problem

African football fans engage in daily prediction culture, but existing platforms fail them;

- Betting apps make fans lose everything over one wrong prediction.
- Score and news apps only tell you what happened, they don't let you be part of the action.

- Fantasy leagues are built for Europe, not African fans or payment systems.

The result?

Fans want to play, compete, and earn; but there's no fair, social, or rewarding way to do it.

Market Opportunity

400M+ Active Football

Fans in Africa:

(CAF & FIFA reports that Africa has one of the fastest-growing fan engagement populations globally)

$5B+ Sports Betting Market, but 80% of Users Lose Interest After First Loss:

(Industry insight reports majority churn because of "total loss" model and lack of community features)

70% of African Digital Users Prefer Peer Interaction Over System Betting:

(GSMA Mobile Engagement Study shows that users trust communities more than institutions/systems)

Mobile-First Generation:

18–35-Year-Olds Driving 80% of Football App Traffic:
(GSMA & Statista)

The Solution

Spotip creates a peer-powered football prediction platform where:

Fans compete against each other, not the house,

turning predictions into social challenges instead of high-risk bets.

No 100% stake loss:

Micro-stake contests ensure someone always earns, boosting trust and repeat participation.

More winners, higher retention:

Tiered reward system lets multiple users gain value, not just a top 1%.

All-in-one fan hub:

Predictions, Fantasy Football leagues, live updates, banter contests, and earnings all in one platform, no app hopping.

Revenue Model

Primary Revenue Streams

Peer-to-Peer Micro Duels

- 1v1 or mini group rival contests around match events or player performance
- Faster game loops results to more contest frequency, higher transaction volume
- Winner takes 80% of total amount
- Spotip takes 20%
- Runner up gets Spotip coins to retry in free contests

Contest Commission Model

- Users pay an entry stake to join contests
- Spotip takes a flat 20% commission
- 80% goes back to top performers which reinforces fairness-driven retention

Competitive Advantage

Existing Solutions in the Market

SportyBet bet9ja 1XBET

Sportsbooks (Bet9ja, SportyBet, 1xBet):

High-risk, house-driven loss model · Users churn after loss · No community layer · Pure gambling.

Fantasy Leagues (FPL, Sorare, Superbru):

Euro-centric design · Zero localization for African banter culture

· No reward loop beyond leaderboard bragging rights.

Score/Content Apps (Livescore, Goal.com, Sofascore):

Purely informational · Users check scores and leave
· No earnings, no peer interaction.

Advantage

Fans vs Fans, Not Fans vs House:

A low-risk contest model where users play against each other, even when they lose, they earn coins and get another shot.

Community at the Core:

Leagues, banter, rivalry duels allows fans stay because they belong, not just because they win.

Built for Africa, From Africa:

Optimized for mobile data, airtime payments, and local leagues; not repackaged European fantasy apps.

Hybrid Fan Engine:

Fantasy, Contests, Live Action and Coins complete fan economy, not just another prediction app.

Go-To-Market Strategy

graph LR; A[Go-To-Market Strategy] --- B[Phase 1: Digital Penetration]; A --- C[Phase 2: Community and Offline Activation]; A --- D[Phase 3: Media & Strategic Partnerships];

Phase 1: Digital Penetration

- Target football Twitter/X, TikTok banter communities.
- Campus fantasy leagues & contest activations in Nigerian universities.
- Partner micro sports influencers & host weekly "Predict & Win" challenges.

Phase 2: Community and Offline Activation

- Viewing center contests & watch-party leaderboards.
- Ambassador networks in Nigeria, Ghana, Kenya, and diaspora fan communities.
- Integration with WhatsApp/Telegram fan groups using automated contest bots.

Phase 3: Media & Strategic Partnerships

- Collaborate with sports podcasts, YouTube channels, radio banter shows.
- Tie-in campaigns with sports bars and betting communities shifting to low-risk alternatives.
- Explore telco bundles & airtime contest sponsorship (MTN, Airtel, etc.)

Traction

Current State — Public Beta

Invited 100+ users to public beta testing; with a strong share of repeat transactions indicating good retention.

₦500,000+

in transaction volume generated within weeks, driven largely by repeat contests and active user participation.

80%+ repeat

demonstrating strong user stickiness and early signs of product-market fit.

User engagement

continues to grow organically through peer challenges, rivalry duels, and community-driven referral loops.
